Title I Program Information

What is Title I?

Title I is a federal program that provides additional math and/or reading instruction.

What is a School-wide Title I Program?

A school-wide program is a comprehensive reform strategy designed to upgrade the entire educational program in a Title I school; its primary goal is to ensure that all students, particularly those who are low-achieving, demonstrate proficient and advanced levels of achievement on State academic achievement standards.

In general, a Title I school may operate as a school-wide program only if a minimum of 40 percent of the students in the school, or residing in the attendance area served by the school, are from low-income families. [Section 1114(a)(1) of Title I of ESEA].

Whereas Title I targeted assistance programs only provide educational services to identified individual students, school-wide programs allow staff in schools with high concentrations of students from low-income families to redesign their entire educational program to serve all students. The emphasis on school-wide program schools is on serving all students, improving all structures that support student learning, and combining all resources, as allowed, to achieve a common goal. School-wide programs maximize the impact of Title I. Adopting this strategy should result in an ongoing, comprehensive plan for school improvement that is owned by the entire school community and tailored to its unique needs.

The school-wide program school must identify students who need additional learning time to meet standards and provide them with timely, additional assistance that is tailored to their needs. This assistance must be available to all students in the school who need it.

Philosophy of Title I

As Title I educators, we believe it is our duty to provide intervention for students and support for the classroom teacher, while upholding Response to Intervention (RtI). Title I educators practice observational techniques, review class assignments and assessment data, and communicate with teachers and parents how best to implement RtI services.

As Title I educators we believe in the importance of on-going evaluations that provide timely data of individual growth. Information is shared with classroom teachers, school administration, and parents/care-givers. Data collected allows us to adjust the type of RtI, push-in or pull-out, which would serve the needs of the individual student in the most effective way.

Lonedell R-14 Title I Program

As a means to connect with and involve families and the community, we believe that it is important to introduce fun and educational ways to supplement math and reading instruction. Our goal each year is to provide family involvement nights that we call "Family Fun Night," at least once per semester. We also publish a column in the Bobcat Newsletter each month.

What are the goals of Title I?

The Title I program strives to provide an environment that:

- a. Promotes a positive attitude toward math and/or reading
- b. Improves student achievement in reading/writing and math
- c. Builds students' self-esteem and confidence
- d. Enables parents to be math and reading partners with their child

What does "Push-in" and "Pull-out" mean?

Some students are served through a push-in style of intervention. This means the student does not leave the classroom. Instead, the Title I teacher (or Title I Para) comes into the regular classroom and works with students there. However, students with a greater need can be served through a pull-out style of intervention. This means the student may come to the Title I room for additional instruction in reading and/or math. The student may come individually or with a small group of students.

How does Title I benefit my child?

First of all, the Title I personnel provide more immediate and intensive additional instruction to students who need it. This gives the student more individualized long- or short-term instruction. Title I personnel provide services to small groups during school-wide RTI time. Secondly, the Title I program has many supplies and resources for students to use. Most importantly, Title I services help students experience success, which increases self-esteem and motivation.

AIMSweb

Starting with the 2011-2012 school-year, Lonedell R-14 Elementary began a new program to monitor all students' (grades K-1st) progress in reading. This new program is called AIMSweb.

AIMSweb is a process monitoring system based on direct, frequent and continuous student assessment. The results are used to monitor each student's progress and to determine an appropriate response to intervention.

Ongoing AIMSweb assessments are now a key component in determining who may need additional reading intervention or support.

More information about the AIMSweb program can be found at: <http://aimsweb.com/>

Developmental Reading Assessment

The Developmental Reading Assessment (DRA) is a set of individually administered criterion-referenced reading assessments for students in kindergarten through Grade 4. Modeled after an informal reading inventory, the DRA is intended to be administered, scored, and interpreted by classroom teachers. There are two instruments in the DRA series: the Developmental Reading Assessment, Kindergarten through Grade 3, Second Edition (DRA2, K-3, Beavers, 2006), which includes the DRA Word Analysis (Beavers, 2005), and the Developmental Reading Assessment, 4-8, Second Edition (DRA2, 4-8; Beavers & Carter, 2003). The DRA2 K-3 and 4-8 are intended to identify students' independent reading level, defined as a text on which students meet specific criteria in terms of accuracy, fluency, and comprehension. Additional purposes include identifying students' reading strengths and weaknesses, planning instruction, monitoring reading growth, and, for the DRA2 4-8, preparing students to meet classroom and testing expectations and providing information to stakeholders regarding reading achievement levels.

The DRA Word Analysis is designed to evaluate the phonological awareness and phonics skills of students in kindergarten and early first grade and the word analysis skills of below-grade-level readers in Grades 1 through 5. Title I uses the data received from DRAs to assist teachers in determining an appropriate response to intervention. ### Reading Recovery

Reading Recovery is a highly effective, short-term intervention of one-to-one tutoring for the lowest achieving first grade students. The goal of Reading Recovery is to dramatically reduce the number of first-grade students who have extreme difficulty learning to read and write.

Specially trained teachers work individually with students in daily 30-minute lessons lasting 12 to 20 weeks. After a full series of lessons, about 75% of these, formerly lowest students, reach grade-level standards.

Math Ideas for Parents

Try to make math fun for your child. If you can make math practice into a game, he/she will be more enjoyable for everyone.

Here are a few basic skills for you to work on with your child.

- Addition and subtraction facts. Use flash cards if you have them, or make them with your child. Use a deck of playing cards-draw two or three cards and add the value of them. Use number cubes (dice). Roll two or three times (or multiple die) and the value of each die face. Take turns with your child. Set a goal number and whoever reaches it first is the winner.
- Practice counting by 2's, 3's, 4's, etc., to 100.
- Practice adding 1 more, 2 more, subtracting 1 less, 2 less in your head. Start out with easy numbers and work your way up to more difficult numbers.
- Practice adding and subtracting with 10 in your head. Again start out with easy numbers and work your way up to more difficult numbers.
- Practice recognizing coins and their values. Practice counting money. Figure out how much snacks will cost. Figure change coming back, and counting back change. Figure out different denominations of coins to equal the same value.
- Practice telling time (on a digital and analog clock). Use terms like quarter-past, half-past, quarter of...
- Use a tape measure, ruler, yard stick, meter stick, or anything that is marked for measuring length. See how far your child can kick, throw, or hit a ball, etc. Make it a game or contest.
- Have your child help you cook! Have them read and measure out ingredients. See if your child can double a recipe or divide it in half.
- When traveling, predict how far you can travel in a certain amount of time or how much time it will take to reach your destination. Have your child keep track of how much money was spent on gas. Choose an item to watch for, such as canoes or blue VW's. Count the number of these items that you see as you travel. Again, make it a game or contest.
- Have your child look at a road map and help you plot your trip.

Reading Ideas for Parents

- Have your child read at least 20 minutes every day and make it fun! Reading related activities should never be used as punishment.
- Show interest in your child's reading. Help him/her select appropriate reading material (but respect your child's reading choices within the bounds of reason).
- Make sure your child sees you enjoying a wide variety of reading materials such as newspapers, magazines, books, etc.
- Check your child's comprehension of the story by asking questions:
  - Fact questions: What were the characters' names? Where did the story take place?
  - Sequence questions: What happened first, second, next, etc. in the story?
  - Critical questions: Did you like the story? Why? Why not? Which character would you have liked to be in the story? Why? How would you change the ending?
- Encourage your child to ask questions about the reading he/she is doing.
- Give your child opportunities to read many different kinds of print: grocery lists, road signs, maps, restaurant menus, etc.
- Encourage word play activities such as rhyming words, words that begin or end the same, words that mean the same or opposite, words that fit in the same categories, crosswords, word searches, Scrabble, etc.
- Go to the school or town library. Let your child participate in the Summer Reading Program at any of the Franklin County Scenic Libraries.
- Make an effort to praise your child for improvement no matter how small the gain. (Each individual has unique interests and abilities).
- Read aloud to your child each day even if they are able to read themselves. (You can select materials which interest him/her but are written at a higher reading level than he/she is currently reading.)
